This is what the authors have done in "Erasing Hell" for which they are to be commended. A truly absurd doctrine is universalism or universal reconciliation which teaches that there is no Hell or if it does exist, it will end at some time. If this doctrine were true, one might ask why Jesus is called the "Savior".

Erasing Hell: What God Said About Eternity, and the Things ...

It's not a book about impersonal theological issues. It's a book about people who God loves. It's not a book about arguments, doctrine, or being right. It's a book about the character of God. Erasing Hell will immerse you in the truth of Scripture as, together with the authors, you find not only the truth but the courage to live it out.

Erasing Hell: What God Said about Eternity, and the Things ...

In 2011, Rob Bell made headlines and caused an uproar in the Christian community with the release of his book Love Wins where Bell (improperly) argued that everyone goes to heaven because hell doesn't really exist and is not a Biblical concept; Erasing Hell is Chan's cogent response. Chan counters Bell's assertion by walking through the first century context of hell in Jewish theology; discussing the Scriptural references to hell; and examining the arguments made by Bell and other universalists.

Erasing Hell Quotes by Francis Chan - Goodreads

The gravity of the issue is what grounds Erasing Hell: What God said about eternity, and the things we made up. This is a serious, somber book written for laypeople. Chan and Sprinkle should be commended for writing a book on a difficult topic and challenging us to interpret the Scriptures without letting our emotions drive our exegesis.

Review of Francis Chan, Erasing Hell, by Jeff Cook | Scot ...

As I read Erasing Hell: What God said about eternity, and the things we made up, I found myself reflecting upon the people that I know and love. They have names, they are in my life. They love me and I love them. Yet some do not have a relationship with Christ. I found myself repenting of the casual ways I have thought about hell in the past.

Book Review: Erasing Hell, Francis Chan

And here Chrysostom said, “If there were a thousand worlds, the loss of the favor of one God is more than a thousand worlds.” It is the greatest torment of a damned man that he is without God. The presence of God makes heaven to be heaven. The absence of God makes hell more hell than it is. “Depart from me, you cursed.”
