smoke comes from the breather because as it says its a breather pipe for the oil its more like warm oil fumes. Best bet is to take the pipe off and clean it out flush the crap out as it may be blocked. you can buy Independent oil breather filters as not to recirculate the crap coming from it through your panel filter. rich23silk

The hose connected to the oil separator goes to a crankcase breather preheater installed close to the intake manifold. That one has coolant pipes. preheater.png. My engine does not have pinging or pinking so I think the oil does not go up the hose to the intake manifold. The previous owner I bought the car from was using regular gas. In Japan, you only get to choose diesel, regular or high ...
